A Note About This Guide

This guide was created by Drayton Valley & District FCSS to make it easier for residents to find information about local programs, services, organizations and businesses that may be helpful to them.

The information included in this guide is provided for information and referral purposes only. The inclusion of a business, organization, program or service does not mean that Drayton Valley & District FCSS recommends, endorses or guarantees the services they provide.

We have done our best to provide accurate and useful information; however, programs, services, contact information, hours and fees can change. We encourage you to contact the organization or business directly to confirm the most current details.

Not sure where to start or what service might be right for you? Give us a call! FCSS staff would be happy to help you explore available community resources and connect you with services that may meet your needs.

780-422-1812 | Toll-Free: 310-0000
Office of Alberta 9th floor 10055 106 St, Edmonton
healthadvocates@gov.ab.ca

The Office of the Alberta Health Advocates brings together Alberta's Mental Health Patient Advocate and the new Health Advocate and Seniors' Advocate. It's a place where Albertans can come to for advice and help in dealing with their issues. People will be helped to find their way to the services and patient concerns offices they need. Albertans don't have to know which Advocate they need before calling or writing. The Office will help people sort through the issues and solve problems.
